ADMISSION POLICIES MUST CHANGE

CLAUDE BISSELL, Professor and former President at the University of Toronto, delivered the 1971 Henry Marshall Tory Lecture at the Chateau Lacombe last week.

Discussing "The Future of Liberal Education," Dr. Bissell said more stringent admission policies must be applied if liberal education programs are to be successful at Canadian universities.

"The university degree has already lost much of its importance," said Dr. Bissell. "We should try to reinforce the degree not as a status symbol, but as evidence of intellectual achievement."

To achieve that end, he said, "Liberal education should be more selective in its admission policies. Canada should resist the American tendency to make the university into a forcing house for social equality, which is what the program of open admission means."

He defined liberal education as all the "primary disciplines in the humanities, the social sciences, and the physical and natural sciences—disciplines that are usually grouped together in a Faculty of Arts and Science.

"In these days of counter-reformation, when the university is under close scrutiny and criticism, liberal education bears much of the brunt of the attack," said Dr. Bissell.

"Much of the criticism of liberal education has come from inside the university, more particularly from student activists and from younger members of staff.

"The heart of the criticism is that liberal education has been professionalized in a sense that the staff devote most of their time to developing experts, to fashioning students in their own scholarly image."

Although the criticism is not new, said Dr. Bissell, students today have more reason to criticize.

"The vast increase in enrolment in liberal education has not been matched by a proportional increase in staff," he said. "This coincided with an increasing emphasis on scholarly publication among staff, which tended to emphasize the division between intense specialized education for the few, and casual, general education for the many.

"Whatever our strategy in curricular changes in liberal education," said Dr. Bissell, "I hope that we shall insist upon high levels of achievement. There is nothing more degrading to the university than a degree achieved by meeting the minimum requirements of an examinations system.

"There are signs we shall have to fight vigorously against a growing wave of cynicism compounded of indifference, inadequacy, and a cheap nihilism. For this malaise there is no cure except in the careful screening of students.

"The professional faculties have long since learned that there is no point in admitting a student unless he has certain skills and a strongly pronounced aptitude. There is no reason why liberal education should become the catch-all of the university world."

Dr. Bissell admits he takes a dim view of student activists, per se, but he says "it is better for a university to have a student body that is politically active, even though it may be wrong-headed and impetuous, than to return to the old days of indifference and irresponsibility.

"But the student of the future should increasingly come from outside the 18 to 24-year-old group. The university should become a centre for adults, men and women who return for short periods to study intensively. If this happens, then we shall see some salutary changes: the decline of the importance of the degree as a preparation for

COMMISSION ON RATIONALISATION OF UNIVERSITY RESEARCH

Public hearings for the Western Provinces will be held in Victoria, Vancouver, Edmonton, Calgary, Saskatoon and Winnipeg. a job; the slowing down of the machinery of assessment; and an emphasis on learning for its own sake.

"In confronting and solving the problems that face the university as society, we shall turn increasingly to the disciplines of liberal education, for these disciplines all lead to a study of man in society."

GENERAL FACULTIES COUNCIL

By FOLIO Staff

A meeting of General Faculties Council was held Monday, October 25, 1971.

GRADUATE PROGRAM APPROVED

Council approved a program leading to a PhD in Oral Biology in the Faculty of Dentistry. The approval was given on academic merit only and does not imply the granting of funds, which will be dealt with by the University Planning Committee.

STUDENTS APPOINTED TO COUNCIL

R. GROCHMAL and N. LENSTRA, fourth-year students in the Faculty of Engineering, have been elected to Council. They replace J. SIMPSON and B. PALYNCHUK.

STAFF FILES

The members of Council voted to establish an ad hoc Committee to Study Staff Files.

SPRING SESSION APPROVED

Approval was given to four proposals made by the Summer Session and Evening Credit Program Committee.

The proposals stated that a spring session, to be administered in a manner similar to the summer session, be established, and that only those courses which can be justified by their enrolment be offered. Adequate publicity of courses offered also is to be provided.

ACADEMIC PLAN 9

Council approved the Academic Development Committee's Second Report on Academic Plan 9, which contains the figures for graduate student planned enrolments.

The Committee qualified its report, however, by stating that the figures submitted by faculties and schools had been accepted as totals only, and not as individual departmental planned enrolments.

SABBATICAL LEAVE

The report by the Council Committee on Selection Procedures for Sabbatical Leave was approved with certain amendments. The following proposals, contained in the report, apply to sabbatical leaves for the academic year 1972-73.

1. All funds allocated in the budget for sabbatical leave replacements are to be allocated among the various faculties and schools. This allocation is to be undertaken by the Allocation Committee, which is to consist of the Vice-President (Academic) as Chairman, the Dean of Graduate Studies and Research (or his designate), and a representative of the AASUA (Association of the Academic Staff of The University of Alberta). Allocations to faculties and schools are to correspond, as nearly as practicable, to the proportion, among applicants cleared by their department, of the various faculties and schools. It is understood that smaller faculties may, from time to time, require preferential treatment. By the time this allocation is made, each chairman must have submitted to his dean the amount needed to provide minimum-cost replacements for (or less expensive means of assuming the load of) the cleared applicants in his department. In order to protect the legitimate interest of the total academic staff on sabbatical leave, replacements are not to be made above the level of sessional lecturer.

2. As soon as the faculty allocations are made, each dean, after consultation, is to allocate to departments actual dollar amounts for sabbatical replacements. It is understood that small departments in which any internal shifting of loads is virtually impossible may, from time to time, require preferential treatment.

3. The dean is to grant sabbatical leave to individual staff members on the advice of the faculty Salary and Promotions Committee, which may, in order to give effect to its advice, recommend a modification in the departmental allocation.

At this time, one of three situations will obtain:

- (a) all cleared applications within the faculty will have been granted leave
- (b) some cleared applicants will have been granted leave, and the availability of additional funds will not be known as yet
- (c) some cleared applicants will have been granted leave, and funds will have been exhausted.

In case of (b) or (c), cleared applicants who have not been granted leave will be placed on a faculty waiting list. Names on the waiting list and monies needed to replace them are to be reported to the Vice-President (Academic). 4. The Vice-President (Academic) shall scrutinize the list and declare who shall be eligible for sabbatical leave. His decision shall be final.

5. Should salary negotiations yield an additional amount for sabbatical leave, this amount is to be allocated to faculties by the Allocation Committee in proportion to the amounts required to grant leave to those on the faculty waiting lists. Additional leaves are then to be granted in accordance with (3).

NOMINATING COMMITTEE

Council approved a revision in the composition of the Nominating Committee. Previously, there were four undergraduate students and one graduate student on the committee. The revision stipulates that there still be five student members, but that at least two be graduates and two be undergraduates.

NOTICES

PHYSICAL EDUCATION FILMS OF FIVE-YEAR-OLDS

The Educational Services Department of the Faculty of Physical Education is attempting to make super-8 films of five-year-old children involved in physical education activities for use in pre-service and in-service teacher education.

Parents wishing their children to participate in this project should bring them to the Education Gymnasium at 3:30 p.m. on Tuesday, November 9. Instruction and filming will be undertaken during five sessions to be held between November 9 and December 7. Shorts and shirt or leotard should be worn.

COUNSELLORS ON CAMPUS

The University is again this year hosting all-day seminars for high school guidance and career counsellors. In total, 180 counsellors from all parts of the province are involved. An introductory session was held on October 29, and an advanced session, for counsellors who have attended previous introductory seminars, will be held on November 5 from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. in the Council Chamber of University Hall. The deans and directors of faculties and schools admitting students directly from high school will be providing up-to-date information on matriculation requirements, admission policies, and problem areas that have been uncovered. Campus tours have also been planned for the concluding part of the November 5 seminar.

As many of those attending will be unfamiliar with the University, the Office of the Registrar would appreciate campus regulars keeping a weather eye open for any lost or bewildered looking persons trying vainly to find either University Hall, parking facilities in the Windsor Car Park, or the Chart Room in Lister Hall where lunch will be served.
